Submission: REDUCE the building heights to improve traffic and everyone's quality of life. Stop trying to cram too many people into too small a space. I would suggest it is greed that drives taller building heights. The areas around this new development will bear the brunt of this greed. Provide infrastructure for all of these people you intend to stuff into this area before it is built. I would like to think this statement would make a difference but dollars will win out before common sense. I suspect those who make the decisions do not live in this area.
