Submission: Pyrmont does not need any more office space. after Covid-40% of office workers are working from home and there is an enormous amount of vacant office space, --why create a white elephant that will never be leased. (in the proposal the gvt wanted 800more offices) our son is CEO of a large home building firm and they are redesigning their homes with offices --for the new generation to work from home---offices are dying. (People working from home is the way of the future) You will have a hard job to let all the vacant office space that the city already has, it would be fruitless to build more office space My suggestion is that the government focus on jobs in manufacturing. We do not want to continue to rely on China. We should be manufacturing our own prescription drugs---and Government money would be well used to set this up. This manufacturing would create more jobs and would be an excellent use of government funds, for the future of Australia---if this industry grew big enough----we would be able to export overseas.
