Submission: Important functions of the airport include flying training, a facility for emergency services such as the Rural Fire Service, the Flying Doctor Service and for transport. Current restricting conditions present unnecessary safety hazards. These include trees on runway approaches, the absence of hangars (which results in sun damage, increased corrosion and water contamination of fuel), inadequate runway length, absence of lighting and reduced times of operations restricting training flights. There is a growing world-wide shortage of pilots and there is a growing demand for quality pilot training in Australia. Warnervale airport helps meet this requirement economically as the aero club is volunteer run. The light aircraft used for this purpose are not intrusive and this factor will be diminished even more in the future as the use of ultra-quiet electrically powered trainers increases. We have only one airport on the Central Coast. If it goes, we will never get it back.
