Presentation looks good, with a low number of units. I'm not sure that there is sufficient infrastructure to support the development. Trains to the City will be much busier, and local roads won't support the extra traffic.

Also, I don't trust this State Gov't and expect the proposal to be watered down in favour of developers over time. Like the plans to move the Powerhouse Museum to Parramatta so they can redevelop it, when Parra should have their own Powerhouse Museum, in addition to what is already available at Darling Harbour; "protecting" Koala's when destroying Koala habitat does more damage than the bushfires have done; Crown's much vaunted Casino in the City hangs in the balance due to its licence - did we really need another casino anyway?
