Submission: It's a shame to see no serious mention of an active transport network in the precinct, in particular a network dedicated segregated cycle lanes to reduce our reliance on cars. A safe cycling network, combined with the booming uptake of e-bikes could make this area a model for the rest of Sydney. In addition to utility cycling I'd like to see mountain bike trails in the proposed parks to service one of the fastest growing sports in Australia. This plan is a great opportunity to break the stereotype that western Sydney residents are wedded to their cars.
