Submission: This whole thing is having a negative impact on my own personal wellbeing. I'm only 17, turning 18 this year in September and I'm also participating in the HSC course. This stuff has only made my wellbeing worse. My mental health is already garbage because of my past and environment. The stress from school isn't helping either. You guys are just adding to it. Like come on, think of the people isn't that what you're meant to be doing? This isn't healthy for my family either, we're struggling financially and you guys are taking away their property which was valued at a much higher price than what you guys want to buy it for. Get real. You're influencing a bunch of people's lives here. This is because you guys poorly planned, hardly talked to the community and decided this all on your own. It's tiring having to worry about everything including the possibility that I might lose my own home in which I've lived my entire life unexpectedly.
