Submission: Another typically disgusting development rammed through by the NSW Gov't. All the experts said high speed rail was a better option, but you've decided a 24/7 international airport in prime agricultural land, adjacent to the world heritage Blue Mountains National Park is what's needed. Most politicians who signed off on this will never have to put up with living near it, travelling to or from it, and with any luck, they can divert current flights away from their homes in the eastern suburbs. Wrong project in the wrong area!
