Dear Sir/Madam,

The proposed agriculture and agribusiness zoning of the northwest part of the new Badgerys Creek airport area is not a good idea. Our property is presently R5 residential which is adjacent to the Luddenham village, Changing it to agriculture zoning will devalue our property. Instead of making it as agriculture zoning, it should be zoned as R2 and R3 zoning to allow more residential developments near to the existing residential area. So those who are moving to this area for work can live nearby area and reduce the travel time. This area is not affecting the noise of the airport. So it will improve the existing facilities also. Because of the infrastructure developments, this area is more accessible from other part of Sydney.

Alternatively, these area can be zoned as business or Hotels and tourism zoning.

There is no scope of agriculture in these area as there is no source of water for agriculture.

So please expand the Luddenham village with more residential zoning. Please rezone our land from R5 residential to R2 and R3 residential.

Thanks
