Submission: I am very concerned about land clearing and habitat destruction for native plant and animals. Conserved areas are fragmented and not enough to prevent extinctions. I worry about the animals who are losing habitat and they are not considered, are killed in the process of land clearing or left to die with insufficient resources. This includes koalas, wombats and long neck turtles. The conservation areas are fragmented and minimal compared to the habitat destroyed. This not only affects plants and animals but the quality of life of people living in the area. There needs to be more conservation and national parks.
