Independent review of planning proposals for identified Aboriginal land

The purpose of this circular is to advise councils and the public about the independent review process for plan-making decisions under Part 3 of the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979 for land identified in the State Environmental Planning Policy (Aboriginal Land) 2019.

Introduction

The State Environmental Planning Policy (Aboriginal Land) 2019 (Aboriginal Land SEPP) currently only applies to certain mapped lands owned by the Darkinjung Local Aboriginal Land Council. This pilot project and the operation of the Aboriginal Land SEPP will be reviewed 12 months following its commencement.

The Aboriginal Land SEPP provides for the preparation and publication of development delivery plans that apply to certain land owned by Local Aboriginal Land Councils (LALCs). Development delivery plans promote strategic and independent planning decisions for LALCs, and consider regional strategic plans as well as the LALC's community, land and business priorities.

LALCs are encouraged to work with councils to progress planning proposals for their land before going through a review process.

There are two administrative review processes available for plan-making on land subject to a development delivery plan.:

- a. rezoning review
- b. independent proposal review

The option for a rezoning review is still retained for LALCs. This process is as outlined in Planning Circular PS 18-012. Alternatively, LALCs may request an independent proposal review.

For both review processes, a new strategic merit test and site-specific merit test outlined in this circular will apply to land subject to a development delivery plan or an interim development delivery plan, that is shown in the Aboriginal Land SEPP.

Independent proposal review

An independent proposal review is an administrative review process closely aligned with the rezoning review process outlined in Planning Circular PS 18-012.

This review will give LALCs an opportunity for an independent body to give advice on planning proposals for land subject to a development delivery plan or an interim development delivery plan, that is shown in the Aboriginal Land SEPP.

Requesting a review

An independent proposal review may be requested by a LALC before a planning proposal has been submitted to the Department for a Gateway determination. These reviews are carried out by regional or Sydney planning panels or the Independent Planning Commission for the City of Sydney (the Commission).

A LALC can request an independent proposal review if:

- a) the land is subject to a development delivery plan made under the Aboriginal Land SEPP; or
- b) if no development delivery plan has been published, the interim development delivery plan for the land, published on the Department's website.

Review and determination

When the Department receives a request for an independent proposal review, it is referred to the relevant council for comment. The comments made by the council must be taken into consideration by the planning panel where they have been provided to the Department within 28 days from the date the request was made.

The relevant planning panel or the Commission will undertake a strategic and site-specific merit assessment of the proposal.

The planning panel or the Commission will determine whether or not to recommend that a proposal should be submitted for a Gateway determination under section 3.34 of the Environmental Planning and Assessment Act 1979 (EP&A Act).

Strategic merit test

The key factor in determining whether a proposal should proceed to a Gateway determination should be its strategic merit. The strategic merit test involves assessing proposals to determine if they are:

- consistent with the relevant development delivery plan for the land to which the proposal applies; or
- where no development delivery plan has been published, consistent with any relevant interim development delivery plan, published on the Department's website, or
- consistent with the relevant regional plan outside of the Greater Sydney Region, the relevant district plan, within the Greater Sydney Region, or corridor/precinct plans applying to the site, including any draft regional, district or corridor/precinct plans released for public comment; or
- consistent with a relevant local strategy that has been endorsed by the Department; or
- responding to a change in circumstances, such as the investment in new infrastructure or changing demographic trends that have not been recognised by existing planning controls.

Site-specific merit test

Having passed the strategic merit test, the relevant planning panel or the Commission must then determine if the proposal has site-specific merit, having regard to:

- the social and economic benefit to the Aboriginal community facilitated by the proposal;

- the natural environment (including known significant environmental values, resources or hazards);
- the existing uses, approved uses and likely future uses of land in the vicinity of the land subject to the proposal; and
- the services and infrastructure that are or will be available to meet the demands arising from the proposal and any proposed financial arrangement for infrastructure provision.

Proposals that, in the opinion of the planning panel or the Commission, do not meet the above assessment criteria will not be able to proceed to a Gateway determination.

If the planning panel or Commission determines that a proposal should proceed to a Gateway determination, councils will be provided the opportunity to accept the planning proposal authority role. If the council does not accept the role within 42 days, an alternate planning proposal authority will be appointed.

Regional planning panels have delegated authority to direct themselves to be the planning proposal authority where a proposal has been subject to a rezoning review and the council has not accepted this role.

For proposals that are to proceed to a Gateway determination, further work may still be required by the LALC or the planning proposal authority before a planning proposal can be submitted for a Gateway determination.

Where a council accepts the role of planning proposal authority, it will have 42 days to submit a planning proposal to the Department for a Gateway determination or an alternate planning proposal authority will be appointed.
