I feel the name for the area is terrible. Aerotropolis. Is horrid. Sounds like something the daily telegraph came up with. Suggest an alternative name.

The plan does not provide enough detail on public transport, cycling and walking infrastructure links.

There should be a western Sydney transport plan with a heavy focus on public and active transport. The area is already suffering from heavy car transport and grid lock.

There is lack of detail on urban planting, greening the area and helping to reduce urban heat island effect.

Will water recycling be included in the plan?

Western Sydney should be preparing for drought.

I agree to the above statement

Yes
