I strongly object to the proposed industrial development north of Trahairs Road to Mary Gilmore Road.

Why take up good productive agricultural land and create noise, odour and unsightly infrastructure in an attractive area especially from Mount Pleasant? Residents in the Brucedale area have paid good money for views and a rural environment in an unique area and do not want glare from solar panels or chimney stacks.

Traffic from Trahairs Road would increase significantly which is not acceptable as there is enough traffic now.

We have not been told what industries would come here – noise and odour studies are hypothetical at this stage.

Why not place infrastructure for industries near smaller country towns to boost employment, use and improve existing rail lines and reduce travel on busy highways, especially for farmers. There are many vacant houses going to waste in country towns.

We are losing our country communities and need to encourage life out of the cities – big is not always best.
